Welcome to the New Hamburg Mennonite Relief Sale!

After a two year hiatus from the in-person New Hamburg Mennonite Relief Sale, we are so excited to be planning for an in-person 2022 Sale.

In 2020, COVID-19 disrupted our plans and forced us to adapt. While we greatly missed the ability to be together in person, we pivoted to a live online auction format, which raised over $120,000 each year since 2020, adding to the more than $14,000,000 raised since 1967.

We couldn't have done that without the tremendous support we receive from the many businesses that generously donated products and services, our volunteers, quilters and the churches that provide resources and spiritual strength to the sale.

Thank you all for your continuing support.

Blessings to all of you and enjoy the sale!

In faith,

Highlighted Quilts

#58 | (36 x 48)

Things That Go

In her retirement, Judy Slaght-Huxley enjoys hand-work by working on cross-stitch blocks. She has attended the sale for many years and contributes crib quilts regularly. The quilt was machine-quilted by Sandra Croley.

#113 | (54 x 60)

The Cat's Meow

Catherine Ruth loves to do machine embroidery. This quilt was looking for a cause. She gave it to the quilt committee who had Linda Dunham machine-quilt it.

#112 | (90 x 91)

Tie Quilt

Marjorie Roth collected ties from thrift shops over the years. This quilt, which represents ties from her collection, includes ties from her husband and father. The quilt was hand-quilted by Nithview Home quilters.

#96 | (103 x 100)

Argyle

The staff at Creekbank Sewing Machine Shop worked together to make this quilt. One person chose the fabrics and pattern, another family member pieced the quilt and another family member hand-quilted it.

Feature Quilt

Glimpses of Nepal

Quilt #125 | (63 x 63)

THIS IS MY LAST QUILT," says Renske Helmuth matter of factly. "It's the thinking part [that's challenging], not the doing part." The acclaimed quilter from Moorefield, Ontario, is offering what might be her last feature quilt for the New Hamburg Mennonite Relief Sale. In addition to the creativity and logistics involved, including travelling around the world for traditional fabrics, Renske's quilts are also demanding of her many collaborators, mostly quilters from the Waterloo County Quilters' Guild. "[It's] asking people again and again to do something they've never done before."

With an astonishing legacy of nine feature quilts submitted to the New Hamburg Mennonite Relief Sale cumulatively fetching over $130,000 for MCC since 2000, Renske is well deserving of a break from being the New Hamburg Mennonite Relief Sale's most decorated quilter.

It's been seven years since her feature quilt, Threads of Africa, sold for $42,000 at the 2015 relief sale auction. This year's feature quilt, "Glimpses of Nepal," started in the same way as Threads of Africa: with an MCC learning tour abroad. This time, she travelled to Nepal in 2016 to learn about MCC's work there and to bring back unique fabric from a marketplace in Kathmandu.

Renske says she was initially stumped on what to do with the over 17 metres of Nepali fabric she brought home. But when her friend and fellow quilter Emily Hunsberger gave her some batik panels depicting images of daily life in Nepal (such as a man carrying a load on his shoulders and women hoeing in a field), Renske had an idea.

For many of her past feature quilts Renske provided her quilting team—numbering as many as 100 women—with the fabric, colour palette, and general direction for the design. She then pieced together a coherent design with the blocks that were brought back to her. However for "Glimpses of Nepal," thanks to inspiration from the batik panels and personal photos from her trip, she had a clearer idea of what she wanted to create: a collage of life in Nepal. She then hand-picked a group of women who she knew could pull off the technical demands of this quilt. The contributors were Ilene Atkins, Bonnie Murdoch, Tamara Gilhuly, Dorothy Holdenmeyer, Nancy Winn and Judy Pearce. The blocks were assembled by Renske and then machine quilted by Ruth Kennedy.

As she reflects on the legacy of her quilts, Renske is grateful. "It has been good. It was fun. [The quilts] raised a lot of money but it has done as much for me as I did [for the Relief Sale] because I learned a lot. I got to know a lot of people...I started to teach [quilting]. It's brought me places where I never would've been before. I gave, but I received too."

We Can't Afford to Stockpile

RACHAEL IS A CIRCLE OF FRIENDS participant. Circle of Friends supports people transitioning into stable housing with regular social visits. In March of 2020, the day before the pandemic was officially declared, Rachael* was in a serious car accident. The serious leg injuries she sustained combined with a past brain injury resulted in loss of employment and mobility which have made the last two years uniquely difficult for Rachael.

These challenges combined with the pandemic exposed Rachael to one of the most precarious parts of living on the margins: food security. Unfortunately, those on the margins, especially during desperate times like the pandemic, are limited in their choices of acquiring healthy affordable food.

"If you're low income, it's really easy to buy junk food," says Rachael. "I used to have severe depression and the reason I'm even functioning the way I am now is by eating as naturally as I can."

Rachael's advocacy for healthy food security has led to involvement in several community garden projects, as well as changing her own grocery shopping habits, relying heavily on the Kitchener Farmer's market. She's also had some help. On two separate occasions, she was given an entire roasting chicken from generous strangers. A compassionate vendor at the Kitchener Market (after it reopened) gives her a good deal on vegetables. And Rachael's Circle of Friends volunteers continue to support her both virtually and in person.

Poverty is a systemic issue that needs time and sustained advocacy to resolve. After the most difficult years in memory for many of us, we cannot forget that those on the margins need more support than ever.

All those loose coins rattling around in your car, your pockets, your key bowl, could be doing more than getting in your way!

Every year spare change collected by churches, children and families adds up to more than $600,000 for MCC's work at home and around the world.

My Coins Count (formerly Penny Power) has been a unique part of relief sales across North America, and especially here in New Hamburg for many years.

All coins collected at the New Hamburg sale are forwarded to MCC and designated as "where needed most." Your spare change (that you won't miss!) will help MCC respond to urgent needs in places that are not in the headlines, but where the need is critical. You are also creating new opportunities by fostering sustainable livelihoods and cultivating food security.

You are partnering with MCC to give courageous people the tools they need to work for peace in their communities.

Drop off your My Coins Count containers or spare change at the MCC tent.

For more information and to get involved with My Coins Count, please visit mcco.ca/my-coins-count.

How Water Flows Through Community Life

WHEN YITATEKUSH DERES describes the challenges facing her community, she is able to give a broad view. Yitatekush has lived her 45 years in the same village in the Amhara region of northern Ethiopia, making her an ideal observer of the bigger picture. She points to a lack of safe water as the most pressing chronic problem facing the community. Many issues can be tied back to water: women and girls spend hours a day fetching water from distant rivers, girls are late for school and are more likely to drop out entirely, and water-borne diseases are prevalent from the use of contaminated water. Discouraged by the situation, Yitatekush and her neighbours applied for government aid for years but never received a response.

Thanks to you, Yitatekush's call to action did not go unheeded. With your support, MCC partner AEID is building wells in 15 rural village communities, including Yitatekush's. There is also a training aspect to the project: hygiene educators train the members of a water committee to maintain the wells so they will serve the community for years to come.

For Yitatekush, the transformation is obvious to see. "Currently, we are starting to live a safe and improved life," she says. "It is very different from the past." She points to the decrease in water-borne illness, more equal school access for girls and boys, and more time for women to do other things instead of collecting water.

To the donors like you who made this transformation possible, Yitatekush has a simple message on behalf of her community: "God bless you."
